Hardin Vice President Named National Estimator of the Year

ORLANDO, FLA. (June 20, 2011) — Hardin Construction Company is proud to announce that Chuck Sauls was named National Estimator of the Year by the National Professional Construction Estimators Association.

Since 1975, the Professional Construction Estimators Association (PCEA) has annually presented the Rudolph John Barnes Award to an individual in the Association who exhibits exceptional service at the National level.

Chuck Sauls is a Vice President and Director of Preconstruction Services with Hardin Construction, two-time President of the local PCEA chapter and former National President of the PCEA. Chuck was among the original 30 charter members in 2002 when they formed the first Florida Chapter of PCEA in Orlando. He stepped up as President in 2003, and under his direction, the chapter size doubled and held its first scholarship golf tournament. Chuck Sauls has been with Hardin Construction for 12 years and in the industry for 27. He has worked on many significant projects including the Darden Restaurant Support Center, CNL Tower II, and the Mall at Millenia.

“I am humbled to be recognized by the PCEA for my work on the national level. I believe in the work that we do, and I hope to keep making strong, positive contributions to our field,” said Chuck of his award.
