Hardin Construction Promotes Grant, Johnson and Wells in Atlanta

ATLANTA, GA (November 28, 2011) — Hardin Construction Company, LLC, one of the nation's leading construction services firms, announced the promotion of Sonja Grant, project manager; Bryan Johnson, controller and Clayton Wells, project manager.

Grant graduated from Auburn University with a bachelor's degree in building construction and started with Hardin in 2005. As project manager, she will provide daily leadership to the project team and is directly responsible for all phases of management of the construction process.

Johnson graduated from Georgia Institute of Technology with a bachelor's degree in management and later went on to pursue a master's of business administration from Georgia State University. As controller, Johnson oversees all financial accounting and reporting activities for projects.

Wells, a LEED Accredited Professional and University of Florida graduate, has been with Hardin since 2007. In his new capacity as project manager, Wells is directly responsible for overall administrative management of his projects.

"We continue to embrace the principles and values that have anchored Hardin for 65 years, even as we introduce new people and personnel assignments as well as new ideas and initiatives to ensure that Hardin remains the smart, innovative company that's respected for providing industry-best services and solutions," said Brantley M. Barrow, Hardin's Chairman.
