Steve Rivers Named Executive Vice President of Hardin Construction

Relocating to Atlanta to spearhead business development nationally

ATLANTA, GA (April 18, 2011) — Hardin Construction Company, LLC has named industry veteran Steve Rivers as Executive Vice President and has tapped him to lead business development nationally for the company.

Formerly a senior vice president and general manager of Hardin's Orlando, Florida office, Rivers will relocate to Atlanta, where he grew up and earned a bachelor's degree in building construction from the Georgia Institute of Technology. He has been with Hardin since 1988.

Rivers' civic and industry involvements have included the Orlando Regional Chamber of Commerce, Workforce Central Florida and the Orlando Economic Development Council. He is an active member of the International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC).

"Steve brings incredible breadth and depth of experience to his new leadership role," said Hardin Chairman Brantley Barrow. "In a variety of construction arenas—from retail and hospitality to office and mixed-use developments—and in leading Hardin's business development efforts in central Florida and, more recently, the Texas market, Steve has been a shining star. We're delighted to expand his responsibilities."

Hardin Construction is currently making a number of changes and improvements to sharpen the company's service-delivery operations.

Said Barrow: "We continue to embrace the principles and values that have anchored Hardin for 65 years, even as we introduce new people and personnel assignments as well as new ideas and initiatives to ensure that Hardin remains the smart, innovative company that's respected for providing industry-best services and solutions."
